Creator of Brindavan Gardens, a German Horticulturist G.H. Krumbiegel's great granddaughter opposes Disneyland plan

Photograph of the Brindavan Gardens shot by Gustav Hermann Krumbiegel after the garden designs were implemented.

Mysuru, July 29 (BCT)- Alyia Phelps Gardiner Krumbiegel, great granddaughter of German Horticultural legend Gustav Hermann Krumbiegel who had designed the iconic Brindavan Gardens at the Krishna Raja Sagar (KRS) Dam, has taken serious exception to the State Government's plan to develop the Brindavan Gardens on the lines of Disneyland in the US.

Gustav Hermann Krumbiegel is credited with meticulous detailing of the greenscape and bringing many exotic plants to Lal Bagh Botanical Gardens in Bengaluru. Gustav Krumbiegel was appointed by Krishnaraja Wadiyar to work on developing the layouts of gardens in Mysuru and Bengaluru. Krumbiegel has worked on numerous gardens and structured a layout for a green belt in Bengaluru which was called 'eco zone.'

Gustav Hermann Krumbiegel

Speaking to Star of Mysore from her home in London, Alyia Phelps Gardiner Krumbiegel said that she was disappointed to read about the Karnataka government's plans to transform Brindavan Gardens as Disneyland to attract more tourists.

It may be recalled here that Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy had sanctioned an initial funding of Rs.5 crore for the Disneyland proposal in his Budget speech. Following this, Tourism and Sericulture Minister S.R. Mahesh visited the Dam site last week and held preliminary discussion with officials and asked them to come up with a blueprint for Disneyland.

An open letter to Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy

Dear Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy,

Alyia Phelps Gardiner Krumbiegel, great granddaughter of German Horticultural legend Gustav Hermann Krumbiegel.

I read today with dismay that the iconic Brindavan Gardens is to be redeveloped on the lines of Disneyland USA.

The dream project of the Mysore's teenaged King, Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar was to construct a dam across the Cauvery for human benefit and he appointed Sir M. Visvesvaraya as the chief engineer. The Brindavan Gardens, located just a level below the dam, earlier was called Krishnaraja Terrace Gardens.

The Inspiration came from the Mughal Garden of Kashmir — The Shalimar Gardens. This achievement goes to the then Dewan of Mysore, Sir Mirza Ismail and my Great Grandfather G.H. Krumbiegel, Superintendent of Parks and Gardens of Mysore the man behind Bangalore's Lalbagh and largely credited for the title of The Architect of The Garden City.

They completed this 60-acre garden in a period of 5 years (1927-1932). Isn't this short synopsis of the history wonderful? And can Disney compete with it? May be it will in the short term!

The Tourism Minister will want international tourists to come to experience the HISTORICAL vibrant city of Mysore during the most famous Dasara festival of Karnataka started in 1610 by Raja Wadiyar in honour of Goddess Chamundeshwari.

Most international tourists are hoping to experience such heritage, why travel halfway around the world to see a theme park just like those back home?

India is a land replete with cultural, historical and religious artefacts, which draw a sense of wonder for the visitors and certainly makes every Indian feel proud of this valuable possession. The Brindavan Gardens is of International value and must be treated following the ICOMOS guidelines.

It is also about the very spirit of the place that just has to be preserved; the so called "genius loci" Disneyland would put the whole idea, the concept of a representative garden, "ad absurdum" - a total neglect of history.

I would be only too willing to meet you to discuss alternative restoration for this most iconic landmark.

Regards,

Alyia Phelps Gardiner Krumbiegel, London

Statistical Data Analysis Workshop for Researchers

Mysuru, July 29- Analysing data and understanding one's analysis is a crucial part of answering one's research questions and ultimately, of any research project. EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Winning a battle is easier than winning the war. In the case of the Swachh Bharat Mission, the fight to make the country Open Defecation Free (ODF) is well on its way to victory, with rural sanitation coverage having jumped from 39 per cent at the start of the Mission in October 2014 to over 87 per cent today. While the finishing line of the ODF battle is well in sight, the ODF sustainability war is still in its early stages. Most time-bound campaigns generate a burst of excitement but, in many cases, their impact eventually fizzles away with time. The Swachh Bharat Mission - Gramin (SBM-G), however, aims to be different and, unlike earlier sanitation programmes, intends to make its gains last.

While achieving an ODF India by October 2019 is a key goal, the underlying plan is to ensure that the behaviour change achieved between 2014 and 2019 is sustained over time. The journey so far to reduce the number of open defecators from 550 million at the start to less than 150 million today has been quite a success, but the ultimate achievement will be the permanent reorientation of rural India's attitude and practices with respect to open defecation. The Mission has made more than rapid progress. Nearly 4,00,000 villages and 400 districts have been declared ODF. Thirteen States and five Union Territories have also achieved ODF status.

Fashionable clothes printed directly on manhole covers

Berlin: A Berlin-based art collective known as Raubdruckerin – German for 'pirate printers' – has come up with a unique way to create textile patterns. They have been traveling around European cities turning manhole covers into printing presses to decorate totes, t-shirts, hoodies, gym bags, and more.

Founder Emma France Raff began experimenting with the concept of 'urban printing press' in 2006 when she founded the project in partnership with her father, Johannes Kohlrusch.

The Raubdrucken team members find inspiration in the urban landscape and often overlooked surfaces of the city, such as utility hole covers and drains. Sustainability is a crucial component of the project, as they aim to offer an alternative perspective and approach to mass production.

70-year-old woman credits youthful looks on sugar-free diet

Perth: 70-year old entrepreneur, Carolyn Hartz, and mother-of-three from Perth, Australia, recently shocked the world with her shockingly youthful looks. She claims that it's due to a healthy lifestyle and cutting sugar out of her diet 30 years ago, but a lot of people believe that her wrinkle-free face and bikini body are the result of cosmetic procedures.

Photos of Carolyn Hartz have been doing the rounds online for over two months now, and for good reason. At 70 years of age, she looks much better than most women do at 50, and we know how obsessed people are with turning back, or at least slowing down the clock.

But while most are in awe of her youthful looks, some accuse her of not being completely honest about how she manages to look so good at her age.

'Server problem' in Govt. Offices

Sir,

Apropos the recent news item titled Server down! in SOM, I would like to narrate a similar experience. Last week, I had been to 'Atalji Centre' (Nadakacheri) where the Government services such as issuing of income certificate, caste certificate, survival certificate etc., are carried out. These centres accept the applications along with attached documents and create a request on the Government Computer Server which in turn gets forwarded to concerned officials such as VA (Village Accountant), RI (Revenue Inspector) etc., for further action.

After all the verifications and approvals are done, the requested outcome such as income certificate etc., are printed at this centre and handed over to the applicants. I first went to the centre at Ramakrishnanagar. The centre was open and I asked the computer operator to login my request. e-operator told me that the server is down and hence the request cannot be taken. I asked when to visit the centre again to login my request. I was told to come the next day morning.

I promptly went in the morning to see if I can apply. To my surprise the shutters were down even after 11 am. I enquired in the neighbouring shop whether the office opens are not. The shop owner replied that due to 'server problem' the shutters are down and it may not be opened for the rest of the day.

I got worried and asked one of my friends for alternatives. He suggested me to go to Jayanagar Centre. I rushed to that office and to my surprise even that office room was locked. I asked some people who were there. They also mentioned 'server problem' and hence the room is locked.

Next day I again went to Ramakrishnanagar Circle office, it was closed. Then I went to Jayanagar office which was locked. Somebody suggested me to go to the centre near Akashavani, Yadavagiri. I went there and I could see people standing in queue. The computer operator was able to receive the applications from the people. I also stood in the queue for about 45 minutes and finally my request was accepted.

Nowadays, we the people of Mysuru are facing this 'server down' or 'server problem' or 'server slow' problem in most of the Government offices in which the general public receives services.

How can this happen only in Govt. offices, when the private service providing offices do not face this problem? Looks like the Government offices are not able to upgrade their computer servers as per the requirement from time to time.

People depend on Govt. services on day to day basis. Even if there is 'server problem' for a day, it impacts thousands of people and results in loss of productive time. Hence, I would like to draw the attention of authorities concerned to address this issue at the earliest.

So, I request the concerned KSRTC authorities on behalf of general public to introduce buses from J.P. Nagar to Bengaluru which will be helpful not only to the residents of J.P. Nagar but also to the people residing in surrounding extensions. I hope my request will be considered.

Mysore Airport expansion plan gets boost

Mysuru, July 29- The Mysore Airport expansion plan has got a fresh impetus with the District Administration all set for a resurvey of around 300 acres of land near Mandakalli on Mysuru-Nanjangud road for acquisition to expand the Mysore Airport for facilitating international flights.

Water gushing out of a crack in ground at Monnangeri

Geologists inspect the spot in Madikeri

Madikeri, July 29 (US)- Groundwater is said to be gushing out of a crack in ground at second Monnangeri in Galibeedu Gram Panchayat of the taluk for the last ten days. The emerging reddish water has created concern among the people.

The two inch width crack is said to have spread for a distance of about one kilometre and appears to be going further.

Officers of Department of Mines and Geology visited the spot a few days ago and concluded that the pressure of the groundwater could have left a crack on the ground to facilitate the flow. They even managed to convince the villagers about the natural phenomenon and has allayed their fears.

However, the crack of late has covered an area of about 50 acres below a hilly area and is said to have entered coffee plantations and has not spared the concrete road in Monnamgeri.

Three families residing in the area have expressed grave concern over a possible caving-in of the land.

MLA K.G. Bopaiah inspected the spot recently and opined that the torrential rain could have raised the water table below ground substantially forcing the water out through a path of least resistance. He has asked senior Geologists to inspect the spot, collect information and clear the doubts to instil confidence among local residents.

Epigraphs before our eyes

Recently I had the good fortune of sharing the dais with Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar, the scion of Mysore royal family. The occasion was the inauguration of Epigraphical photo gallery, arranged by the office of the Director of Epigraphy which is located at Puratattva Bhavan near Sankranti Circle, Hebbal Second Stage.

In fact, it is a good opportunity for our culture-minded youngsters to visit this office and learn about our great heritage. The whole credit should go to the present Director Dr. Muniratnam Reddy, popularly known as Muni which means a sage. He is wedded to epigraphy or inscriptions and in this sense, he is a real Muni.

Yaduveer had worn a suit befitting the occasion and had diamond ear-rings, a symbol of royalty. He had vermillion (Kumkum) on his forehead - an evidence for his love for tradition. I released the brochure on Epigraphical photo gallery. Then Yaduveer spoke about epigraphy as an important source for understanding the history and culture of India.

The audience was amazed at his knowledge of our heritage in general and epigraphy in particular. He referred to James Prinsep who was the first to take interest in reading Brahmi script. The romance of this decipherment reads like a novel in Indian Cultural history. Prinsep noticed some bi-lingual and bi-scriptal coins with Greek and Brahmi Writings (legends) and thus the whole vista of epigraphy became an open book.

From then onwards thousands of inscriptions have been deciphered and published by this Department. I had written a book — Kannada Lipiya Ugama Mattu Vikasa (Origin and Evolution of Kannada Script) which has seen over eight editions and has bagged many awards. Incidentally it is the first publication of Kuvempu Institute of Kannada Studies, University of Mysore.

The Department of Epigraphy had illustrious officers like Dr. Hultzch a great German scholar. He was the first Government epigraphist and held this post with distinctions till 1903. Then came V. Venkayya who unfortunately passed away in 1912. The next scholar was H. Krishna Sastry, followed by Hirananda Sastry, K. V. Subramanya Aiyer, A. S. Ramanatha Aiyer, C. R. Krishnamacharlu, N. Lakshminarayana Rao, R. S. Panehamukhi, P. B. Desai, Dr. Chhabra, D. C. Sircar, Dr. Govindaswami Rao Gai, (who was my neighbour in Jayalakshmipuram), K. G. Krishnan, Pandit V. S. Subramanian, B. R. Gopal, K. V. Ramesh, M. N. Katti and happily S. H. Ritti, M. D. Sampath and K. M. Bhadri are with us.

The Epigraphy branch was bifurcated and Arabic and Persian which had headquarters at Nagpur had illustrious scholars like Z.A. Desai, N. M. Ganam, M. F. Khan, M. I. Qureshi and others. The most important contribution of the two branches was the publication Epigraphia Indica with Sanskrit, Kannada, Tamil, Telugu, Malayalam inscriptions and Persian epigraphy.

These volumes are a store house of knowledge on Indian epigraphy. Perhaps no other state or country has had the distinction with the sole exception of Lewis Rice who edited Epigraphia Carnatica volumes and I had the good fortune of re-editing and reprinting these volumes with help of some scholars like H. M. Nagaraja Rao, Krishnaveni and others. This series is still continuing in Mysore University.

Now, let me take our readers through the corridors of epigraphy as exhibited in the Puratattva Bhavan. The first inscription is from District Gorakhpur of Uttar Pradesh and is dated third Century B.C. followed among others by Girnar inscription of Asoka of Third Century B.C. which refers to patronage to Buddhism and tolerance towards other religions.

We are yet to achieve this in full measure even in our own times. Asoka had installed many inscriptions in Karnataka and perhaps the highest number. It shows that Ashoka had a special fascination for Karnataka (Vanavasi) from which place he sent Buddhist missionaries to many countries.

There is a cave inscription at Sittananavasal in Tamil Nadu which belongs to first century and is written in Tamil-Brahmi. The next inscription is that of Nahapana of Kshatrapa dynasty belonging to 119-24 A.D. Hurishka's (Kuhsana dynasty) inscription at Mathura is a mixture of Sanskrit and Prakrit and refers to a gift to hundred Brahmans.

Sittananavasal has many caves which are famous for inscriptions because of many reasons. It is located in Pudukottai district of Tamil Nadu. It mentions Eramainadu. This word is important. Eramai means buffalo. The present name of Mysuru is generally explained as Mahishanauru or Mahishasuranauru meaning the town named after the demon or rakshasa Mahisha. He had the face of a buffalo. Thus Mahishasuranauru in course of time became Mysuru anglicized as Mysore.

According to mythology, demon Mahishasura was tormenting the people, particularly those who were performing Vedic sacrifices. The gods requested the supreme god to free them from this demon. It is believed that goddess Chamundi or Chamundeswari killed this demon. Of course there is also another theory according to which Maisunadu is mentioned in an inscription of early centuries of Christian era Mahishanadu is also mentioned as a town from where Buddhists missionaries were sent for the propagation of Dharma.

Another important inscription at Banavasi in (North Karnataka) is that of a Chutu king which is carved on the border of a Naga stone. Samudragupta's Allahabad pillar inscription is most significant because it mentions the various wars fought by this great king and hence he is known as Indian Napoleon. But for this inscription the greatness of the king would not have been known to us.

Halmidi inscription in the village Halmidi in Hassan is considered as the earliest Kannada / Sanskrit inscription in Karnataka. It is dated 405-435 AD. This is the importance of the inscription. Kadamba Ravivarma's Gundnapur inscription in Uttara Kannada district is famous for the box-headed characters. Chola Parntaka' Suttaramerur inscription is extremely important for understanding municipal elections, the procedures of which are more or less being followed even now.

Music Director Hamsalekha (third from left) is seen releasing the playwright B.M. Ramachandra's felicitation volume titled 'Bannadawadi' at a programme organised at Kalamandira in city yesterday.

Mysuru, July 29 (YDS&DM)- Expressing concern that Prime Minister Narendra Modi's concept of Smart Cities may become a launching pad for promotion of Hindi throughout the country, noted Music Director Hamsalekha has observed that recognition of multiculturalism was the need of the hour in the country.

Recalling his association with Ramachandra even before he (Hamsalekha) entered filmdom, Hamsalekha, in a lighter note, said that Ramachandra, a smart guy that he was, would have become a superstar had he (Ramachandra) come to the film world. But Ramachandra insisting that he would not leave the theatre, chose to stay in Mysuru.

Noting that he was born and brought up in a family of musicians, Hamasalekha said that he and his six associates, namely Chandra, Murthy, Jayadev, Ramachandra, Selva and Devi Prasad were fondly called as the 'Magnificent Seven' by his family members.

Attributing his success in the film world as a music director to his wife, Hamasalekha termed B.M. Ramachandra as an 'Ajatashatru' who was liked by everyone.

World Tiger Day celebrated in Zoo, Bandipur

Power lines, roads, railway lines passing through forests are disturbing wildlife: Retired IFS officer

Mysuru, July 29 (MTY&KS)- "High-tension power lines, roads, railway lines passing inside forests and human activities inside forests are not only disturbing tigers but also disturbing the entire wildlife which is forcing them to come out of forests leading to man-animal conflicts," said P.S. Somashekar IFS (Retd.).

He was speaking as the chief guest at the World Tiger Day celebration at Mysuru Zoo here this morning.

International Tiger Day or World Tiger Day is celebrated to create awareness on tiger conservation throughout the world as well as the challenges faced by conservationists today.

He said "If we conserve and protect one animal, it is like conserving all animals and also protecting nature." Stating that tiger is an unique animal and a big cat, Somashekar said that in 80s and 90s, pressure was given for the protection and conservation of this magnificent animal as tigers were on the verge of extinction.

He said that earlier, tigers were hunted for entertainment and in 1973, Tiger Protection Act came into force which resulted in the increase of their population gradually. Providing the statistics of tiger population in the country, he said that as per 2006 census, there were 1,411 tigers, 2010- 1,706 tigers, 2014- 2,226 tigers and now more than 3,500 tigers in the country, he said that tiger census is being conducted every year in the country and count is being taken through pug marks, camera trapping and other means. He further said that national-level tiger census is being conducted once in four years.

Stating that there were 50 Tiger Reserves in the country now as against only 9 in 1973, Somashekar said that in a bid to protect the National Animal, eco-sensitive zones are created around all Tiger Reserve Forests in the country.

At present, there are eight tigers housed in Mysuru Zoo and six in Koorgalli Rehabilitation Centre in city. The Zoo Youth Club was inaugurated on the occasion.

Additional Principal Chief Conservator of Forests and Member Secretary, Zoo Authority of Karnataka (ZAK) B.P. Ravi, Mysuru Zoo Executive Director Ajit Kulkarni and others were present.

Anamorphic art of tiger draws crowd at Mysuru Zoo

An anamorphic art of a tiger by city artist Anil Kumar Bhogashetty at the entrance of the Zoo attracted a lot of people who thronged the spot to have a glimpse of the tiger.

Anamorphic art is a distorted projection or perspective requiring the viewer to use special devices or occupy a specific vantage point (or both) to reconstitute the image. A conical or cylindrical mirror is placed on the drawing or painting to transform a flat distorted image into an apparently undistorted picture that can be viewed from many angles. The deformed image is painted on a plane surface surrounding the mirror. By looking into the mirror, a viewer can see the image.

Bandipur: Meanwhile, Bandipur National Park, which is one of the prestigious tiger reserves in the country and houses more than 100 tigers in the wild, celebrated the day with a special programme to mark the occasion during which a postal cover on tigers was released by India Post.

Ambadi Madhav, Director, Bandipur Project Tiger, said that about 6,500 envelopes would be printed by India Post and will be used by the Forest Department for official communication through postal means. He further said that tourists and visitors were provided with useful information about tiger and the need to protect these big wild cats.

Launching the website, MLA S.A. Ramdas bemoaned that the youth were contracting mental ailments and opined that music was a proven remedy for mental depression. Ganabharathi President Dr. C.G. Narasimhan, Industrialist Dr. M. Jagannath Shenoy, Kannada and Culture Assistant Director H. Chennappa and others were present.

Disneyland plans opposed

A photograph of Brindavan Gardens shot by Gustav Hermann Krumbiegel.

Alyia Krumbiegel, who has written an open letter to Kumaraswamy (the letter is reproduced here), has requested him to drop the Disneyland proposal as Brindavan Gardens is of international value and must be treated following the guidelines issued by International Council on Monuments and Sites (ICOMOS).

ICOMOS guidelines say that any historic garden cannot be isolated from its own particular environment, whether urban or rural, artificial or natural. The garden must be preserved in appropriate surroundings and any alteration to the physical environment which will endanger the ecological equilibrium must be prohibited, the guidelines say.

"No restoration work and or reconstruction work on a historic garden shall be undertaken without thorough prior research to ensure that such work is scientifically executed. Before any practical work starts, a project must be prepared on the basis of said research and must be submitted to a group of experts for joint examination and approval," the guidelines say.

"I know the Brindavan Gardens is not the same historical value as the Taj Mahal. But it should be. The Tourism Department in Karnataka must promote their valuable assets well enough to the international tourism industry," Alyia Phelps added.

NOTE: It may be recalled here that Star of Mysore Editor-in-Chief K.B. Ganapathy had written an Abracadabra on July 9 titled 'Accidental Chief Minister Must Not Present Bogy Budget' wherein he had expressed concern about Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy's plans to develop the Brindavan Gardens on the lines of Disneyland.

Now read on…

"I have seen three Disneylands including the one in Tokyo, Japan, known as Disney World. Is the land available at KRS enough for an ambitious project like this? Is it safe to have a Disneyland under the menacing, intimidating massive dam with water gushing from its crest gates, specially during monsoon? It is as ridiculous as Modi saying he would make Mysuru like Paris. Irresponsible statement and we gullible people believe these utterances. The budget allocated for Kumaraswamy's Disneyland is Rs. 5 crore. Impossible. But, a Kumaranna's fan tells me it is only for preparing the Project Report. So be it."

Organ donation: Mysuru-Bengaluru Green Corridor saves six lives

The Mysuru Police, along with their counterparts at Srirangapatna, Mandya, Maddur, Kengeri and Koramangala created a corridor free of traffic signals to facilitate transfer of the vital organs. This system is also referred to as the 'green corridor' wherein all the traffic lights on the particular route are lit green.

Dr. Manjunath Shetty, Professor and Head, Department of Nephrology, JSS Hospital told Star of Mysore that Puttegowda was brought into the JSS Hospital on Friday, July 27. A mason by profession, Puttegowda, son of Subbegowda of Ketupura village in Bannur Hobli fell from a height of 12 feet while he was working at a house at Raghavendranagar in Nazarbad Police limits.

Puttegowda was severely injured on his head and despite the best efforts of the doctors at the hospital, he was declared brain dead. Dr. Shetty said that Puttegowda's family agreed to donate his vital organs including heart, two kidneys, liver and cornea. "The organ donation formalities were completed yesterday and the organs were harvested this morning at 6 am and were shifted to Bengaluru. In all six patients will get a new lease of life from Puttegowda's organs" he said.

While the JSS Hospital has transported and received vital organs in the past, it is for the first time that a live heart is being transported to Bengaluru. "A live heart has a window period of just two-and-a-half hours and it must be transplanted by that period. While the heart was transported to Narayana Hrudayalaya, one kidney has been sent to Institute of Nephrology in Bengaluru. The liver has been transported to Aster CMI Hospital," he added.

One of Puttegowda's kidneys has been retained at the JSS Hospital and it will be transplanted today to a 46-year-old patient who is in the waiting list.

Dr. Manjunath Shetty further said that relatives of brain-dead patients must come forward to donate organs as it will give new life to a number of patients who are waiting for vital organs.

"The Central government is planning to give Rs. 5 lakh cash (Rs. 1 lakh per year) to the family of donors. This five-year scheme, once implemented, will encourage a lot of people to donate the organs of brain-dead patients," he added.

Geetha-Vadya-Nritya, a way of Kalopasana

On July 23, Nadavidyalaya Academy of Music and Dance had organised a unique presentation 'Geetha-Vadya-Nritya' at Sri Nadabrahma Sangeetha Sabha in the royal city, Mysuru. As per the name itself, students of Nadavidyalaya presented Karnatak vocal music, instrumental and a special bharathanatyam concert 'Saathvikabhinaya.' The quote 'Geetham vaadyamcha nrityamcha trayam sangeethamuchyate" would perfectly fit since this recital was treat for eyes, ears, ultimately for the soul.

In the beginning, Trisha Kulkarni (Houston, USA), disciple of Vid. M.S. Naveen, presented Karnatak classical vocal concert. She steadily started with 'Jalajaakshi varnam' composed by Subbayyar in raga Hamsadhwani vilamba aditala. By picking up the pace, Trisha melodiously praised Lord Ganapathi through Vadiraaja's composition 'Gajamukha Vandisuve' set to naata raga khanda ekatala. Muthiah Bhagavatar's one of the amazing composition 'Sudhamayi' set to amruthavarshini raga roopaka tala was executed very well and the small jugalbandi between vocalist and violinist perfectly balanced.

Later, Purandaradasa's famous composition in which our mind is compared to a mud pot 'Tarakka bindige' in tillang raga trishra ekatala came out tunefully. The very next was the famous bhajan 'Shri Ramachandra kripalu bhajamana' of Tulasidasa set to Kalyani raga mishrachaputala where audience lost in the sweet voice of Trisha. As a perfect ending to Geetha concert, Trisha sung Tillana 'Geethadrinikutaka dheem' in Dhanashri raga aditala of Swati tirunal maharaja. This was the first time Trisha, from past five years of learning under Vid. Naveen through online classes, had sung in front of audience, yet she had been trained so well that she perfectly managed to captivate the minds.

Trisha Kulkarni presenting a vocal recital at Sri Nadabrahma Sangeetha Sabha in city recently.

The second major step of this evening Vadya concert. Trisha on western violin and Yeashas N. Kashyap, disciple of Smitha Shrikiran, the Director of Taranga, on flute presented a fusion. It started off with varnam 'Evvari bodha' of abhogi raga Aditala followed by bilahari jatiswara aditala. Thyagaraja's one of the well-known compositions 'Samajavaragamana' in Hindola raga aditala was played in a perfect synchronisation.

Continued by 'Mudakaraatta modakam,' ganesha panchakam in ragamalike, composed by Aadi Shankaracharya. In the end, Purandaradasa's 'Bhagyada Lakshmi baramma' in madhyamavathi raga aditala shined like the jewel on the crown. Geetha and Vadya concert was accompanied by Vid. Dasappa on mridanga and tabla, Vid. Purushottam on keyboard, Vid. Gurudath on rhythm pad, and Vid. Chetan on violin which enhanced the beauty of the prog.

The final mile stone of the day was 'Saathvikaabhinaya.' It was a unique bharathanatyam presesntation where 14 disciples of Vid. Mithra Naveen performed Shloka, four Padam, seven Javali and Astapadi, portraying their strength in abhinaya. First of all, Deepa S. Narayan put her heart in expressing bhakti through two shlokas — 'Ramo nama' and 'Vamshi vibhushitha.' Next, series of Padams were enacted. Srishti enacted sweeya praglabha dheera nayika who was in agony because of the separation of nayak in 'Yeamataladina' composed by Muvvanalluru Sabhapathayya set to Yadukula kambhoji raga mishrachapu tala. The nayika, who is angry on nayaka's act of cheating, pierce nayaka with sharp words which was skillfully presented by Deepthi Sudhir through Kshetrajna's padam 'Rammanave' in raga athana. S.V. Poornashree ably presented feelings of wife who is gloomy without the news of well-being of her beloved nayaka through another Kshetrajna's padam "Bhamaro Napaini" set to saveri raga mishrachapu tala. Last among the padam's was "Ninnu joochi" of Kshetrajna set to varali raga mishrachapu tala by Bhavya Urs where she depicted a nayika's mixture of feeling when she sees her nayaka after a long time. Javali is such a nritya bandha where usually samanya nayika is described. S. Harshitha illustrated nayika who is proud of her nayaka and believes that he is above all others in javali composed by Dhramapuri Subbarayar 'Smarasundaranguni' in pharaz raga aditala.

Continued by 'Idene sakhi' of venkataramana ramarao in raga behag aditala in which Meghana showcased nayike who is waiting for Nayaka by decorating her entire living area and herself and also suffering the pain of separation. Next comes 'Virahatapa' where nayika is in a state that she can't bear that pain of viraha anymore, performed by Ritu Venkatesh which was a fine piece of music of Narahari Achar set in desh raga mishrachaputala.

Bengaluru Nagaratnamma had composed 'Matdabaaradeno,' representing a nayika who suffers an unimaginable pain by the silence of her dearly loved nayaka proficiently performed by P. Rachitha. Followed by 'Sakhiprana' one of the master piece of Dhramapuri Subbarayar set to Jhanjooti aditala in which Moulya presented a nayika who doubts that her nayaka might be cheating her. Sahana Patil with her gifted expression described nayika requesting her friend to help her to bring back her nayaka who might have cheated her in javali 'Prana natha baradhoda' of venkataramanyya in suruti raga trishranade aditala. 'Mathuranagarilu' one such unique javali of patnam subrahmanya ayyar pictures parakeeya nayika who is determined to sell her milk n butter yet wants to be with her nayaka was well presented by Harshitha Amruth. This Javali also pictures the dheeralalitha nayaka Krishna.

The dheeralalitha dakshina nayaka — Sri Krishna — who is prankishly precise in his thoughts and gestures was cleverly enacted by Aparna Kodankiri. As a concluding presentation, C. Navyashree excellently showcased Radha in virahothkanthitha avastha through Jayadeva's astapadi 'Nindati chandana' was highly impressive. These dance presentations bloomed with the perfect blend of music provided by Guru Vid. Naveen Andagar on vocal, Guru Vidu. Mithra Naveen on natuvangam, Vid. Daasappa on mridanga, Vid. Thyagaraja on flute. Thus theme 'Geetha-Vadya-Nritya' justified.

Traffic Wardens conduct awareness programme for students

Mysuru, July 29 (NNN)- K.R. Traffic Police Inspector Manjunath advised the students not to drive two-wheelers till they attain the age of 18 and obtain driving licence and not to go triple riding which is a violation of traffic rules.

He was addressing the students of Maharishi PU College as part of the Traffic and Road Safety Month organised by the Traffic Wardens, in the college premises here recently.

Deputy Chief Traffic Warden Subramanian asked the students to follow traffic rules and practice self-discipline irrespective of whether the Police is present at the signals or not and safeguard their young lives.

He also brought to their notice that the youth aged between 18 and 35 are unnecessarily becoming victims to these accidents due to traffic violations which has to be controlled.

A video of various accidents leading to serious injuries and death as recorded in the CCTV at various traffic junctions in Mysuru were screened to bring to their mind the result of traffic violations.

He also stressed that driving by youth below 18 years without licence and causing accidental deaths would result in their parents being penalised by hefty fines and even jailed if fines are not paid.

Traffic Warden K.V. Ramanath invited the students to actively participate and help the Police to avert accidents by uploading photos of traffic violations whenever they come across such incidents on roads through public eye on the internet. This will help the Police Control Room to issue penalty notices to the errant drivers.

Principal Mahadevaswamy, thanked the Traffic Wardens for extending an educative programme to the students, the benefits of following traffic rules and the evil of violations in traffic rules. Over 200 students participated in the interaction that followed.

Kodagu cannot withstand tourism pressure, says green activist

Col. Muthanna

Madikeri, July 29- Observing that Kodagu, being an eco-sensitive zone, cannot withstand the pressures of ever-growing tourism, Coorg Wildlife Society President Col. (Retd.) C.P. Muthanna has said that he will oppose any plans for further boosting of tourism in Kodagu.

Addressing a press conference in Madikeri recently, Col. Muthanna, who is also the Co-ordinator, Save Kodagu and Cauvery Campaign, said that they were not opposing Kodagu's development but were only objecting the plans that were damaging the district's ecology.

Reiterating that Kodagu cannot withstand the pressures of growing tourism as it is an eco-sensitive zone, he maintained that the number of tourists (15 lakh) visiting Kodagu every year was multiple times more than the population (5.5 lakh) of the district.

Pointing out that the present tourism structure in the district was much more than enough, Col. Muthanna underlined the need for allowing restricted entry everyday to popular tourist spots in the district such as Abbey Falls, Irupu Falls, Thadiyandamol Mountain ranges, etc.

Emphasising that he was against any projects that would harm the ecology of the district, he said that a meeting held at Bengaluru recently, attended by Forest Department Officials and NGOs had discussed allowing private resorts along the forest edge.

At the meeting, Forest Officials had said that private land along the edge of forests can develop the forest and build resorts on the land for promoting tourism. But the Coorg Wildlife Society has strongly objected to the plan, he said.

Expressing concern that private wildlife will lead to more influx of tourists into Kodagu from neighbouring States, he called for detailed deliberations on the ways to develop forest-rich districts such as Kodagu.

Asking the people's representatives and environmentalists to discuss Kodagu's development on a single platform rather than making contradictory statements elsewhere, he said this was the best way to resolve eco-issues concerning Kodagu.

Taking strong exception to senior advocate A.K. Subbaiah's allegation that some environmentalists were pushing for inclusion of Jamma Bane land as forests, Col. Muthanna urged Subbaiah to name such environmentalists.

Tarun Cariappa and C.K. Poovaiah were present at the press meet.

BJP demands cancellation of MCC Ward reservation matrix

WORD OF THE DAY

Stultify

Pronunciation: STUL-tuh-fye.

Meaning: To cause to appear or be stupid, foolish; To impair, invalidate, or make ineffective.

Origin: Stupid or absurd behaviour can be almost laughable at times. That's the kind of situation depicted in an 1871 London Daily News article, describing how a witness "stultified himself" by admitting that he was too far off to hear what he had claimed to have heard. But there is nothing especially funny about the now-archaic original usage of stultify. The word was first used in the mid-1700s in legal contexts, where if you stultified yourself, you claimed to be of unsound mind and thus not responsible for your acts. Nor is there humour in the most common meaning of stultify nowadays, that of rendering someone or something useless or ineffective.

Examples: What started out as a promising plan to redesign the town square ended up being stultified by bureaucracy and too many conflicting special interests.

THE ODD WORD

Agastopia

Admiration of a particular part of someone's body.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

As thick as thieves

Meaning: Close friends with; sharing confidences.

Origin: We might expect 'as thick as thieves' to be a variant of the other commonly used 'thick' simile 'as thick as two short planks'. The fact that the former expression originated as 'as thick as two thieves' gives more weight to that expectation. As you may have guessed from that lead in, the two phrases are entirely unconnected. The short planks are thick in the 'stupid' sense of the word, whereas thieves aren't especially stupid but are conspiratorial and that's the meaning of ' thick' in 'as thick as thieves'.

'Thick' was first used to mean 'closely allied with' in the 18th century, as in this example from Richard Twining's memoir Selected Papers of the Twining Family, 1781:

Mr. Pacchicrotti was at Spa. He and I were quite 'thick.' We rode together frequently. He drank tea with me.

Like all 'as X as Y' similes, 'as thick as thieves' depends on Y (thieves) being thought of as archetypically X (thick). The thieves had some competition. Earlier versions were 'as thick as'... 'inkle weavers', 'peas in a shell' and 'three in a bed', all of which were examples of things that were especially intimate (inkle-weavers sat at looms that were close together). These variants have now pretty much disappeared, leaving the way clear for 'as thick as thieves'.
